No. 518.

THE Pennſylvania GAZETTE.

Containing the freſheſt Advices Foreign and Domeſtick.

FROM NOVEMBER 9. TO NOVEMBER 16. 1738.

LONDON, July 11.

THE laſt Dutch Mail brought us the following remarkable SPEECH of the Count de TESSIN, Marſhal (or Speaker) of the Dyet (or Parliament) of Sweden, at the Opening of that Aſſembly, in the States Hall on the 20*th of* May laſt: Printed at the Requeſt of the Nobility, at the Royal Printing-Houſe at Stockholm.

Moſt Potent and moſt Gracious KING,

PURSUANT to Your Majeſty's gracious Summons, Your moſt faithful Subjects, the Nobility, have the Honour, together with their Brethren, the other Eſtates of this Kingdom, of approaching the Feet of the Throne with the moſt lively Marks of that profound Reſpect by which they ever will diſtinguiſh themſelves to their Kings, the Fathers of this Country.

'Tis no ſmall Happineſs for us, that being for the moſt Part of the ſame Age, we have now, at the fifth Time of our Meeting ſince Your Majeſty's Acceſſion to the Crown, the Joy of diſplaying, in a full Aſſembly, that ardent Zeal and Affection with which we are animated for our Sovereign eſtabliſhed by Law; but we reckon it an infinitely greater Happineſs that we have been excuſed, at all thoſe Dyets, from that Taſk which the States are indiſpenſably obliged to, of approaching the Throne ſometimes with Remonſtrances that are well-founded, but ſuch as are diſagreable and melancholy to produce.

'Tis one of Your Royal Virtues, That Your Majeſty takes no Pleaſure in hearing Your own Praiſes. The Tranquillity which the Kingdom has enjoy'd, and which it is ſtill bleſſed with on every Side, and the Uſe which has been made of our Leiſure, to encourage Huſbandry, to add richer Branches to our Commerce, and to train up Artificers and Manufacturers among our ſelves; all theſe Things ſufficiently demonſtrate to the preſent Age, and will faithfully tranſmit to Poſterity, the Praiſe of that Prince under whoſe Government ſo many happy Eſtabliſhments had their Commencement, 'Tis owing to the regular, uniform, and ſincere Exerciſe of the true Religion, that the Divine Bleſſings multiply on the Government and on the People, and that every one performs his Duty in Peace, and with a good Conſcience. A State which is not diſtracted by domeſtick Diviſions, has the Satisfaction of being eſteemed and courted by the other Powers. A Government bounded by the Laws, but render'd deſpotick by the Affection of the Subjects, is not at all burthenſome to the Sovereign, nor uneaſy to the People.

The Diſtribution of Offices and Favours, to thoſe who according to Law deſerve them, encourages every one to do his Duty the better, pleaſes their Hearts, and baniſhes all manner of ill Will.

The having a greater Regard for the Army, without the leaſt Diminution of the Reward which they ſo richly deſerve, who ſacrifice their Lives for the Glory and Defence of the State, is the way to ſecure and fix its Power, and to preſerve the glorious Fame which the Swediſh Nation has acquir'd Time out of Mind, by the intrepid Effuſion of its Blood, and its great Exploits. In Proportion as Juſtice is perform'd without Partiality or Delay in the Execution, the publick Security increaſes, the Innocent are more and more incouraged, and the Seditious borne down as it were by the Laws.

The Preſervation of Liberty inviolable, increaſes a Confidence in the People, and gives Leave for their applying thoſe Pains which they would be obliged to take for their own Defence to the other Neceſſities of State. The Exerciſe and Extenſion of Commerce produce that Wealth which is neceſſary for the Accompliſhment of other Projects. An Application to the Arts of Handicrafts nouriſhes the Inhabitants, gives them Eaſe in Proportion to their Labour, furniſhes them with freſh Knowledge, and perfects their Induſtry. A Union among thoſe who poſſeſs the firſt Offices of the Kingdom, gives greater Weight to the Deliberations of the Council, ſets all other inferior Officers a more awful Example. The patronizing and executing the expreſs Decrees, and the reſpectful and well-intended Suffrages of the States of the Kingdom, is the way to make them eaſy and fearleſs during their Receſs.

Moſt Potent and moſt Gracious King,

All theſe fundamental, general and immutable Maxims of Your Majeſty's Reign, convince the States of the Kingdom that they are going into the right Paths that will carry them ſafe to their Point of View; which is, next to the Glory of GOD (the univerſal and principal Aim of every Chriſtian Action) the particular Satisfaction of Your Majeſty, and the Happineſs of the Country, which is inſeparable from it.

In all Governments, 'tis common to ſee Men inceſſantly boaſting themſelves to be more zealous than others for the Publick Good; but Your Majeſty, whoſe Penetration nothing can eſcape, cannot fail of being fully perſwaded that there is not one Man among us, but what is animated with the ſame Zeal, in the higheſt Degree, ſo that ſuch as pretend herein to ſurpaſs others, are the more liable to a Suſpicion, that they have a ſecret but fatal Deſign, to interrupt the Harmony betwixt the Head and Members, and ſo ſacrifice the Good of the Publick, either to their own Advancement, or to the Maintenance of their own Authority.

Theſe

These particular Views could not infect the States of the Kingdom assembled in the Dyet, who are the sincerest and safest Counsellors. They are the most sincere, because the Glory and Preservation of Your Majesty are necessary to their Happiness, and what they all pray for: And they are the safest, because from an infinite Number of Notions which are started among them, and all carefully debated, they single out the best in order to form an unanimous Judgment upon them.

We are all full of Zeal and Submission to Your Majesty: We all ardently desire the Advantage of the Kingdom: 'Tis our Duty so to do; we perform it with Joy, and hope we shall never see that unhappy Time, when an Affection to Your Majesty, and a Love of our Country will be look'd upon as rare Virtues in this Nation.

Being animated with these Sentiments, which are those of every Subject, who is faithful to a good Sovereign, we will religiously apply our selves, most Potent King, to anticipate Your Majesty's Desires to advance the Good of the Nation, to remove every kind of Disorder, to discover if there are any dangerous underhand Practices, and finally to leave incontestable Proofs of our Loyalty, and our Probity.

With these pure Intentions the States of the Kingdom now come before Your Majesty, to receive, with a respectful Silence, those gracious Proposals which You shall order to be communicated to them.

We acknowledge that a Calm is agreeable to such who have but lately escap'd the Furies of the Storm; but if it were necessary to bear a Part in the general Motion of Europe, we should still prefer so honourable a Course to an ill-tim'd Inaction, and to a Tranquillity which would make us blush.

May the LORD, to whom the Government of all the People immediately belongs, and who rules them by his profound Wisdom, be pleased to give Vigour and Success to all Your Majesty's just Designs, that Your Name and Memory may become everlasting and immortal! May the LORD also grant such an Issue to the Dyet which is now opened, that it may deserve to be remembred by the Posterities of Sweden, and that it may be a Means to perpetuate that Reputation for Probity, Valour and Fidelity, of which the Goths and Swedes have been in all Times so tender.

The Nobility most humbly recommend themselves to Your Majesty's most gracious Protection and Royal Goodness.

HAGUE, Sept. 1. It's reported here, that the Turks having resum'd the Siege of Orsova with greater Vigour than before, and even transported themselves by means of large Floats of Timber to the Foot of the Walls, the Garrison being summon'd, and threatned with a general Assault, surrender'd the Place upon Capitulation the 18th past.

BELGRADE, August. 28. The Fortifications of this Place are, with the utmost Assiduity, putting in a good Posture of Defence. Great Lamentations are made here for the Loss of Orsova, which it's thought, would not have capitulated, being as it were the Key to the Bannat of Temeswaer, had there not been some urgent Necessity for so doing.

Sept. 3. The last Advices we receiv'd from the Ottoman Army are, That a few Days after the taking of Orsova the Grand Vizir dispatch'd a Part of his Troops towards Transilvania, and declar'd that he was going to begin his March for drawing near Belgrade.

LONDON, Sept. 4. 'Tis confidently said, That a Treaty of Accommodation between the Courts of Great Britain and Spain, was actually concluded on last Tuesday Evening.

We hear that there will be a Grand Council this Day at Kensington, on extraordinary Affairs.

We hear an Order is gone down to the Sea-Ports, not to impress any more Men for his Majesty's Service, till further Orders.

Extract of a Letter from Madrid, dated August. 11.

THE last Pretensions of the British Court, upon which Mr. Keen resumed his Conferences with the Marquess de la Quadra, are reduced to the four following Heads, viz.

1. Restitution of the Ships which the English maintain were unjustly taken in the West-Indies by the Spanish Guarda Costa's.

2. A free Navigation to the said Indies.

3. That no English Ship shall ever be rummaged in the American Seas by the Spaniards. And

4. The Restitution of several Places formerly possessed in the West-Indies by the English, particularly the Bay of Campeachy.

BUT We are of Opinion, That if the Negociations for an Accommodation take a happy Turn, those Pretensions will be moderated, inasmuch as the Court alledges on her side, That the visiting of English Ships on the high Seas is conformable to the Treaties of 1667 and 1670, and that the King, so far from being obliged to restore any Possessions, has a Right himself to pretend to Restitutions. So far the Letter.

WE hear that a Convention for accommodating the Differences between Great Britain and Spain, in a future Treaty, was signed here last Tuesday Night, Aug. 29.

LONDON, Sept. 1. Sir Humphry Howard is appointed Governor of Barbados, and we hear that Coll. Pit is appointed Governor of North-Carolina, in the room of Coll. Horsey, deceased.

Extract of a private Letter from Stockholm, dated the 5*th of* Sept.

THE frequent Indispositions of the King having determin'd his Majesty to disburthen himself of the Government of his Kingdom, he has transferr'd the Care and Regency thereof to the Queen, his Spouse. Yesterday the States of the Kingdom sent a Deputation upon this Subject to that Princess; and Couriers have been dispatched to several Courts in Europe, in order to carry thither the News of this important Event.

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 8. Since his Majesty has surrender'd the Government of the Kingdom to the Queen, that Princess has presided twice in the Senate, and signs all Papers relating to the State.

LONDON, Sept. 18. On the 23d of Sept. N. S. died at Leyden, aged 70, the famous and learned Dr. Herman Boerhaave, Professor of Physick in that University, too well known in the learned World to have any thing said of him here.

NEWPORT, Novemb. 3. Early this Morning, Thomas Davis, one of the Criminals under Sentence of Death, hang'd himself; at 11 o' Clock the same Day, Peter Legrand, Peter Jesseau, and Francis Bowdoin, the other Criminals, were executed at Bulls Point, according to the Sentence of the Special Court of Admiralty held here on the 5th of Octob. last: The aforesaid Davis was also bro't with them to the Place of Execution and hang'd on the Gallows.
